

Product excellence recognition from industry

The Topcon TP-L5 pipe laser and Sokkia GCX2 were both winners in Construction Equipment magazine's Top 100 New Products of 2015. According to the magazine's editor, the award program "was conceived to call special attention to the most significant new products announced each year. These awards serve to emphasize innovations, highlighting manufacturers who are investing in research and development. Their investments pay off for equipment users in the form of greater productivity, efficiency and safety. They also ensure a competitive marketplace."
